NEW TRILBY'S FATHER SEEKING HIS DAUGHTER.

Swears Vengeance on Young Watkins Who Used Hypnotic Influence.

Philip Doremus Watkins, the young Montclair (N. J.) man who is said to have married Miss Maud Schofield, the daughter of a wealthy Omaha merchant, after the acquaintance of an hour on a west-bound train, is being sought all over the country.

His father-in-law, whom he never met, is looking for him and says he will not answer for the consequences when he meets him. Watkins has left a trail of checks across the continent and in each instance, it is said, he could not have been successful except through hypnotism. In Los Angeles, where Watkins took his bride, he forced her to sing like Trilby as he said to have sung under the influence of Svengali.

There are thousands of poor children, clear-eyed, red-checked and healthy, who owe their lives and health to the generosity of the boys and girls who have worked so hard for The Evening World Sick Babies' Fund. There are thousands more of wan-faced, sick babies who are now being cured through the efforts of these big hearted helpers. Fairs, stands, entertainments of all sorts are held every day in and around Greater New York for the benefit of the sick babies, and each contribution received goes toward the saving of some little life.

No sum of money is too small to be of use in carrying on this grand work, and money is earnestly requested to enlarge its scope and influence. There is much sickness this summer among the children of the poor, and the fund physicians are kept busy day and night. Contributions to The Evening World Sick Babies' Fund should be addressed to the Cashier of The World, Pulitzer Building, New York City.

MISS RIVES TO MANAGE A $1 A COPY DAILY PAPER.

HALLIE ERMINE RIVES.

(Special to The Evening World.) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 14.—Miss Hallie Erminie Rives, southern author of "Hearts Courageous" and other books, is to become a newspaper editor in order to aid the charity movement to save the Atlantic City Hospital from financial embarrassment.

This afternoon she will take full and complete charge of the Morning Sentinel in this city, and until the paper goes to press to-morrow morning she will be editor-in-chief and the paper will contain her ideas and be her idea of what a newspaper of to-day should be. She will give out all the assignments, write the editorials, receive the copy and edit the greater part of the news, after which she will go to the composing room and on the linotype machine set up her own editorials. Miss Rives will then "make-up" the edition, assigning the respective news items to their proper places.

Her labors will end when she starts the large press that will run off the edition. Already there is a large demand for the paper Miss Rives will edit. It will sell at a dollar a copy, and the whole proceeds will go to the hospital fund. The management of the Sentinel gives the use of their office and material for this purpose.
